Its spring and about time! So as of 15 April we have 473 members on our Fb page. I want to thank each and every one of you for your contributions to the page. Keep posting the pictures. If you have any suggestions please voice them on the page, or message me.

The wife and I are looking forward to October. My sister and her husband will be joining us this year. It will be a great time for me to visit with her and all of you. We will be driving this will be a nice vacation for us.

I received my copy of the documentary. I thought it was well produced. I sent them a letter while it was in production. I asked Please do not give the war protesters no more than a 30 seconds. This they did very well. My only wish is that it gets on TV. I was happy they used a few of my pictures also.

Well guys we will see you in October. Safe trip there to everyone attending. Have a safe spring and summer.

Update on the new Ripcord Book

Now with a working title, "Remembering Firebase Ripcord," Chris Brady is putting the finishing touches on a book dedicated to the men who took part in the four-and-a-half month battle at Firebase Ripcord. It is hoped the book will be available by early to mid summer. Stay tuned.

The book features the recollections of the men who served over that time from March to July in 1970. Information was also obtained from official records, past "Ripcord Report" newsletters and the Veterans Oral History Project by Dr. James Smither. Nearly 200 men were interviewed over the course of more than 18 months for the project.

by George and Mary Murphy

Hello, Everyone,

We spoke with Ulla Nolan and she and Erik have survived all of the storms that have been rolling through the St. Louis area. Anna Britt is close to finishing her first year of high school, so time is moving on. She is greatly appreciative of the funds our Ripcord Association members have contributed toward her future education.

We'd like to remind everyone to start thinking of the Anna Britt Nolan Fund Raffle we will have at the reunion in October. George says bring lots of goodies to raffle and lots of money to buy them! See all of you in October.

Charlie Company 2-506 70-71 reunion

I attended the C 2-506 70-71 reunion held in Washington, DC, 9-11 April 2015. On my way there, I stopped in Smithfield, VA and visited with Albert Burckard, who was CO of A 2-506 during the first half of the Ripcord battle. Chuck Hawkins was Albert's successor for the second half.

Everyone mostly arrived on 9 April. Our host for this event was COL Bob Seitz, who is Honorary COL of the 506th Inf Regiment. Bob was the last CO of C 2-506. Our guest speaker that evening was COL Johnny Davis, CO of the Old Guard. He has had numerous assignments in the 101st including the 502nd and 506th, and maintains Regimental Affiliation with the 506th. He showed numerous Ripcord slides during his speech, many I had not seen before. He did include Jeff Wilcox's pictures of Impact Rock and the shower on Ripcord, along with the now getting to be famous pic of Jeff, Charlie Lieb and Jack Hopke saluting at their promotion on Ripcord.

On 10 April we took the metro to Arlington Cemetery where we presented a wreath at the monument to the 101st ABN (see pic). Thereafter we took a trolley tour of of Arlington and concluded by watching the changing of the guard at the Tomb of the Unknown. At that evening's dinner we had a roll call of all the Charlie members who have passed since Vietnam. We also had a presentation of what to expect at the Vietnam Wall for our visit the next day.

On 11 April we bussed to a point adjacent to the Vietnam Wall. We held a ceremony on the grounds, company formation, were we read the names of all KIA in 70-71. At least half were during Ripcord. A bugler, in dress blues from the Army Band, played Taps. Another wreath from Charlie was taken over to the Wall and placed in front of the panel where the Ripcord KIA are listed. With assistance from the National Park volunteers, we were able to do tracings of names. This was a very emotional experience for all. We were joined for this by Jack Hopke, 501st Signal BN, Ripcord.

That evening our dinner speaker was LTG James Mc Conville, who was CG 101st ABN for the 2013 deployment to Afghanistan, and is now Deputy Chief of Staff, G1 of the Army. Afterwards, the company voted to hold our 2016 reunion at Ft Campbell in conjunction with the 506th Airborne Infantry Association reunion. I do not have the date at this time, so stay tuned.

We were also joined by Lora Gassett from the Robert F. Sink Library and Larrissa Dougherty of the Pratt Museum, at Ft Campbell. I hope to see more Ripcord folks at these Charlie reunions. We have had Ripcord folks from other units join us for portions of the reunion, and they have been most welcome to join in. My thanks to Bob Seitz, Gary Gilliam Ken Pitetti, Steve Bago, Tom Weides, Randy Parmley and Mike Womack for putting on a great reunion.

Respectfully, Bob Leibecke

I was on FSB Arsenical on or around July 3 1970 I was told there was a chopper in bound for me. I was sent back to Camp Eagle changed choppers and was sent to FSB Ripcord. Came in under fire like a lot of us did. I was on Ripcord until July 23 1970 when we were told to destroy the equipment and go to the chopper pad. I left under fire as we all did ended up in camp Evans.

A Sniper's Perspective

In 1998, I received a letter from Keith Nolan to tell about my experiences for his book "The Siege of Ripcord". I wrote a few pages, but the emotions started rolling in like waves on the beach. I had to put this disturbance away from myself so did not finish the story. I talked to Keith once on the phone, but just could not finish my story. I was anxious to read the book when Keith had it published, so I bought the book as soon as I could. I read the book and it was very good. It cleared up some events that I thought happened but were completely wrong.

I was a sniper in Echo Company 2/506, 101st Airborne. As a sniper I was like a gypsy and was assigned to many different units. The first time I went to Ripcord, I was with Bravo Company and we marched several days until we walked and climbed to Firebase Ripcord. This was in May 1970 as it became a firebase. The next time I went to Ripcord, was after I had been on Firebase O'Reilly for a few weeks. Things were really heating up on O'Reilly. We were getting probed at night and on one night it became a bit of a battle. In the late night we had movement in the wire in front of my position. I moved from my foxhole to a higher position to see better with my starlight scope. The whole hillside erupted in explosions and firing. I felt a sharp sting in my upper buttocks as I dove for cover. After it had quieted down, I made my way up to the aid bunker where the medics were patching up a few wounded and a medivac was coming in. The medic looked at my wound and told me I could get on the medivac and get a Purple Heart or stay and have him fix me here. I said I would stay and he dug a fragment out of my butt.

A few days later we heard that Ripcord was in a fight and they told me to get ready to fly to Ripcord. I was told that I had better find a flak vest and steel pot because Ripcord was bad! I believe I found a vest, but not a steel pot. Before long I was in a Huey and on a ride to Ripcord. As we neared Ripcord, we came in high and corkscrewed down to the firebase. As we got closer, I was sitting in the doorway watching mortar rounds impacting on Ripcord as we went to land. When the bird touched down, I was off and looking for the nearest hole I could get into. My bird was off and another landed just where I had gotten off. When it touched down, it got stitched with bullets and a man in the door was hit in the chest and fell. The Huey shut down and the whole firebase was shooting into the surrounding hill; a quad-fifty, many M-60s, mortars, artillery; an unbelievable amount of fire was going into the jungle. One of the nearby foxholes had room so it became my new home.

This was now everyday routine on Ripcord. Every time a flight came in the whole firebase would open up at the surrounding hills and incoming fire would hit us. From my foxhole, I could see a quad-fifty to the left and a little higher up. In the foxhole we had an M-60 and an M-79 with lots of ammo and grenades. We had a fighting position and a sleeping position with overhead cover. My rifle was a ZM21 Accuritized M-14 equipped with a3X9 ART scope. For night time I had a starlight scope as well.

I decided on my own to try to spot and take out some of the NVA O.P.s (observation post). I moved and glassed from many positions all over Ripcord trying to spot some NVA and get some kills. They were well camouflaged and didn't give one much of a target. I think my longest shots were about 700 meters. I would shoot four or five times into their position and then I would move. There were unexploded artillery rounds all over the firebase from when the ammo dump blew up. I remember kneeling over these rounds as I tried to take a shot. I believe I killed several of their O.P.s.

I recall at some positions the GIs would stand up straight and fire L.A.W.s at the NVA.

Each day the incoming got worse until by the last few days of Ripcord, during daylight, you wouldn't even leave your foxhole to use the latrine. We would piss in a c-rat can and take a dump in an M-60 cardboard box and get rid of it later.

I had a close one as I stepped toward a bunker, a mortar round knocked me down but no shrapnel hit me. I remember getting CSed and sleeping with a gas mask on. People were getting wounded every day and night. We heard that there were thousands of NVA in the hills around us and they planned to overrun us.

At one point a sergeant came to our foxhole and told us to follow him and leave our weapons. He volunteered three other troops and we ran to the aid station. We had two litters of wounded to carry. When a chopper came in you knew the incoming mortars would start, so we carried the wounded to the edge of the chopper pad and laid down beside them. When the medivac touched down we quickly lifted our wounded and got them loaded. As the bird lifted off we ran for cover and the mortars rounds hit all around the pad.

By now all our nerves were shaky and it seemed everyone was smoking in an effort to calm their nerves. Finally on the July 22, 1970, we got word that we were pulling out and that at daybreak they would begin evacuation. The last night was rough. We thought for sure an all-out attack was coming. After dark our mortars started popping illumination rounds to light up the perimeter. I do not remember when the firing started, but different weapons were firing. Then the whole firebase was going off like a mad minute then tapering off and back to a mad minute; this went on all night. Before the night was over I threw a whole case of grenades and fired most of a case of M79 rounds until my arm was numb.

Straight in front of my foxhole and downhill about 30 yards away was a pallet of 81mm mortar rounds. One of the illumination flares floated down while still burning and caught those mortar rounds on fire. They soon started cooking off with the shrapnel howling. This thing was blowing up for hours and I thought "Good! No gooks will come near this foxhole."

At daylight the first big Chinook came from below just clearing the wire. It hovered over an artillery piece while a trooper on the ground hooked it up. Just like that the piece was picked up and gone. The guns were lifted out before the NVA could respond, but the incoming soon started and they really hammered us. The choppers lifted the heavy equipment out first. Meanwhile, we were firing like mad with everything we had. Supporting artillery was hitting the hills with all the guns that could reach us. Air strikes from jets were going in and the Cobra gunships were attacking.

At one point a Chinook was coming in to make a pick up and was hit. It set down and started burning. I thought it would explode but it just burned.

Soon they began lifting out the troops. As they left, we began to shrink the size of the perimeter. By this time I don't think there were very many troops left on Ripcord. We had moved halfway up the hill into a bunker and got the word to move to the top. I think there were three or four of us and as we moved to the top we passed two dead officers. On the top there was an older N.C.O. I think he was a Pathfinder. He was wounded in several places with bloody bandages tied on him: what a brave man! He stood in the open directing us to take cover. We had one more move to make to the chopper pad. When the NCO said "Go" we ran to the last bunker by the chopper pad. Halfway there, as the three of us ran, two 82mm mortar rounds hit, one on each side of us. I was hit in three places in the left arm and one piece through my armpit. The other two troops fell. Help ran out and got us into a bunker where we were patched up. They had stretchers ready and when the next Huey came in, we loaded and lifted off. I was saying my prayers.

I was operated on in Danang and flown to Cam Rahn Bay to the convalescence hospital. I think I was there for two or three weeks and then back to the war. The hospital in Danang was full of 101st troopers. I was lucky; most of the wounded were much worse off than I was. I could still walk, most of them seem to be barely alive. I will never forget them!

CURRAHEE!
